NOTE REQUESTS AMERICANS QUIT CHINESE CITIES

Hull's Protest Rejected
As Tokyo Discusses
War's Necessity

NATION TO ACT ALONE

Nanking Named Center
Of Defense

TOKYO, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Japan, in a note replying to American protests against airplane bombing of Chinese cities, made it plain today that she regards her campaign as a matter of military necessity and will continue it.

It was denied that Japanese aviators are indiscriminately bombing civilian populations and it was intimated that foreigners must evacuate bombing areas if they want to be safe.

The net effect of the note was to reaffirm the Japanese position that Japan alone, without regard to protests of individual nations or the League of Nations, must decide what she is to do and what is right.

"Co-operation" Asked

The note recalls the Japanese warning that Nanking, the Chinese capital, was to be bombed and asks the United States government to understand Japan's position and to "co-operate" in the future—presumably meaning to remove Americans from danger zones.

The note recapitulates the Japanese attitude that only military objectives are bombed and comments: "It goes without saying that raids are not directed indiscriminately at non-combatants."

It is advisable, the note says, for foreigners to take refuge when warning is given in order to add a further safety factor to the care of Japanese pilots.

Japan was inconvenienced strategically.

Michigan Bank Bandit Slain

FIRING a deer rifle from his office window at Midland, Mich., Dr. Frank Hardy, straight-shooting dentist, killed Jack Gracey, left, and wounded Tony Chebatoris, right, following their attempt to rob the Chemical state bank. Apparently seeking the $100,000 Dow Chemical payroll, the gunmen had wounded two officials of the bank in a spectacular machine gun raid.

Woman Who Fled Ross County Prison Captured

CHILLICOTHE, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Myrtle DeSonia, of Dayton, who escaped from the Ross county jail last week after throwing pepper in a cook's eyes, was arrested with her husband, Andy, in Dayton early Thursday.

Both are to be returned to Ross county. Mrs. DeSonia was arrested Aug. 12 on a charge of participating in the robbery of the Pete Wagner cabin in Ross county.

Officers said her husband would be returned to face charges of aiding her to escape jail.

Officers were told Mrs. DeSonia was in Ross county until Tuesday night when she was taken to Dayton. She had been in that city until Sunday night.

Her sister, Miss Audrey Hughes, 20, residing north of Chillicothe, was being held Thursday for questioning in the case. Another sister, Mrs. Eva Jackson, was sentenced to the Marysville reformatory by Pickaway county authorities after admitting receiving stolen property.

Andy Jackson, of Whisler, husband of Eva Jackson, was taken to Chillicothe, Wednesday, for questioning. He was later released.

FARMERS NAMED IN DAMAGE SUIT OF POWER FIRM

TIFFIN, Sept. 30.—(UP)—The controversy between farmers of near Fireside, O., and utility interests over erection of rural power lines broke out anew today after seven persons were named defendants in a $10,000 damage suit filed here by the Lake Erie Power and Light Co.

The suit alleged the defendants were instrumental in leading a group which destroyed 24 poles and 868 pounds of copper wire, and harassed the company's line-men.

Defendants were John Hansen, S. U. Snavey, W. J. Hansen, E. L. Denfer, R. J. Zieher and Harry Collin, farmers, and R. J. Williams, manager of the North Central Rural Electric Co-operative.

The dispute started two weeks ago when the farmers objected to erection of lines by the power company, fearing it would hamper work of the rural electric co-operative.

BLACK BELIEVED READY TO TALK OF KLAN CHARGE

Capital Hears Justice to Use Radio to Explain
His Position

COURT MEETS MONDAY

McIntyre Denies Roosevelt,
Appointee Talked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes today charged that former President Hoover is "the greatest expert on the subject of the Ku Klux Klan" and accused New Deal enemies of attempting to "drag a red herring" across the appointment of Hugo L. Black to the supreme court.

SEATTLE, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary to the President, denied published reports today that Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black had conferred with Mr. Roosevelt by telephone on his return to Washington from a European vacation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Justice Hugo L. Black was believed ready today to present to the country by radio his answer to allegations, that he was and is a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Such unprecedented action probably would be made before the court meets next Monday for the first time of its autumn term.

There is no direct confirmation that Black would use the radio to reply formally to the charges published while he and Mrs. Black were vacationing in Europe. To officials of the National Broadcasting company, who offered him the chain's facilities tonight, tomorrow or Saturday night, Black replied:

"Thanks for your offer. Will inform you if I desire to avail myself of it."

May Say More

Clifford J. Durr, Mrs. Black's brother-in-law at whose home in Alexandria, Va., the Blacks spent the night, said that the justice had not decided to make a radio address. He indicated, however, that Black probably would say more than he said yesterday on his arrival at Norfolk, Va.

At that time he refused to answer whether he was a member of the Klan, but told the 60 newspapermen who met him, that when he had any statement to make he would "make it in a way that cannot be misquoted and so the public can hear it." He added that "some parts of the press might fail to publish what I said" when asked if he meant he would reply by radio.

AMUSEMENT PARK LOSES $250,000 IN 10-ALARM FIRE

BALTIMORE, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Firemen today brought a 10-alarm fire under control after it swept Carlin's amusement park, causing damage estimated at close to $250,000.

Two firemen were burned and 20 were overcome by smoke fighting the blaze which quickly swept through the inflammable amusement park buildings.

Before being brought under control flames swept three large frame buildings, a roller skating arena, a power house and other amusement structures.

John J. Carlin, owner, said that the property was not insured.

The 10 alarms brought all available fire fighting apparatus in Baltimore and the nearby suburbs to the park which was located in the northwest section of the city. Nearby was a thickly settled residential section.

Firemen said they could not determine what started the fire because the frame buildings had been consumed so quickly.

Spangler Asks $50,000 In Alienation Petition

Former Constable Blames Wife's Guardian,
Grandmother for Taking Affections

Marshall R. Spangler, former Circleville township constable now employed in Dayton, filed suit for $50,000 in common pleas court Wednesday against Stuart C. Spangler, of Columbus, his wife's guardian, and Mrs. Minneola Spangler, of Circleville, his wife's grandmother, charging alienation of affections.

Spangler and Clara Belle Spangler were wed June 8, 1935, in Westerville and are the parents of a daughter, Nancy Ann, age 18 months. Mrs. Spangler filed suit for divorce last Aug. 20.

Marshall Spangler's petition charges that the defendants in the court suit with willful, wrongful and malicious intention of depriving him of his wife made certain false, improper and untruthful remarks about him to Mrs. Spangler, trying to entice her to abandon him.

Assertions Alleged

Spangler charges that on numerous occasions the defendants informed him that they were opposed to the marriage and that they regretted that the marriage had ever been consummated. The former constable charges also that his wife has informed him repeatedly that her grandmother had on every conceivable occasion attempted to influence her saying that he was indolent, no good, and that anytime she wished to leave him that she would be provided a home.

The suit contends further that his wife's grandmother and her guardian have continuously sown seeds of dissatisfaction and discontent by purchasing his wife expensive and unnecessary articles of clothing beyond her needs for the sole purpose of encouraging, influencing and persuading her to alter her affections toward him.

Spangler claims that on the day preceding the filing of his wife's divorce petition that he was ordered to Mrs. Minneola Spangler's home and was informed that he was worthless, did not support his family and that his wife intended to ask a divorce. He says he has not been permitted to see, talk or otherwise communicate with his wife or daughter.

His wife has indicated that she wishes to return to him, he says, but that every attempt of theirs to re-unite has been thwarted.

Motion Filed

Spangler's attorneys filed a motion Wednesday that the divorce action be made more definite and certain and to set out the exact amount of property of his wife, both real and personal, under the direction and control of her guardian.

PLAIN FOLK ASK COURT TO HALT WORK ON SCHOOL

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 30.—(UP)—The "plain people" of Lancaster county have determined today to plead for respect of their religious principles before the United States supreme court.

Nearly 500 Mennonites, bearded Amishmen and their sombre-clad womenfolk met in nearby Bird-in-Hand last night to resist the influences of modern education, and agreed to boycott a $112,000 consolidated school erected in East Lampeter township to replace 11 one-room, red brick schoolhouses.

They feared that sending their children to the new school, to be taught by modern teachers and mix with modern children, might create in them a disrespect for the religious tenets of the 300-year-old sect.

Lincoln was accompanied by Earl Hobson, his cousin who also is a pilot. A Las Vegas, N. M., mechanic was reported to be aboard. The mechanic was believed to be H. B. Taylor, attendant at the National Guard airport at Las Vegas.

The tri-motored Ford plane left Albuquerque at 10:20 a. m. yesterday. It was reported over El Morro, N. M., shortly afterward. Nothing had been heard of it since then.

Man Who Started Calvin Coolidge to Success Dies

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Judge Henry P. Field, 79, of Hampshire probate court, who started Calvin Coolidge on his legal career, died from heart disease at a hospital today.

Yesterday was his 79th birthday anniversary.

It was in Field's office that Coolidge read law after graduating from Amherst college, also the jurist's alma mater.

In 1895 Field sponsored Coolidge for admission to the Hampshire county bar.

Twenty-four years later it was Field, as a presidential elector, who nominated Coolidge for vice-president.

SPEZIA, Italy, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Eight persons were killed and 12 injured today when a military plane fell into a group of young shipyard apprentices near the Spezia arsenal.

Detroit Police Question
Three Negroes

CADIZ, Sept. 30.—(UP)—The possibility that State Patrolman George A. Conn, 28, came on members of the Brady gang, notorious in Indiana and Ohio, when he was killed near here last Monday, was investigated by 22 fellow troopers as they searched eastern Ohio for Conn's slayers.

The Brady gangsters have been reported hiding in the eastern Ohio hills. Conn fell dead under a fusillade of eight bullets, apparently as he stopped an automobile to question its occupants.

Twelve federal agents were assigned to aid state highway patrolmen in their investigation of Conn's murder. The G-men will work out of Freeport, near where Conn's body was found Tuesday.

Bank Robbers Hunted

Three bank robbers who escaped from the county jail at Cleveland last week also were hunted as suspects in the Conn killing. The fugitive desperados are Frank and Charles Bird, brothers, and James Widmer.

George Bird, brother of the fugitive bank robbers, was arrested yesterday in a Highland Park, Mich., hotel. He was expected to be returned to Cleveland tonight to face charges of aiding the escape of the three from the Cleveland jail. He was held under $50,000 bond for hearing.

Capt. George Mingle, in charge of state troopers here, said he also had been advised of the arrest of three negro suspects in Detroit.

Capt. Mingle said .32 caliber bullets, reported to have been used in a holdup by these men, were to be taken to the Findlay, O., barracks for study by David Cowles, Cleveland ballistics expert. The bullets taken from Conn's body were .32 caliber.

State patrolmen are following up every tip received, Capt. Mingle said.

LOUIS TO RETIRE AFTER TITLE GO WITH SCHMELING?

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Joe Louis, world's heavyweight boxing champion, said today he intends to retire from fighting after he meets Max Schmeling next June in New York.

Louis arrived in San Francisco on a California tour with his Brown Bombers softball team. "Win, lose or draw," Louis said, "I'm going to quit. What's the use of a fellow fighting any more after he's won the championship. There's nothing to look ahead to."

Louis said he had enough money to live comfortably the rest of his life.

The reason given for consolidation of the two divisions was the desire to reduce operating expenses.

Two Officials To Meet With
C. C. of A. Officials

With three members absent Wednesday night, city councilmen adjourned their special meeting until Thursday at 8 p. m.

Those absent from the session were H. L. Steinhilber, Ben Gordon and John C. Goeller, president of council.

The special meeting was called to consider an ordinance appropriating $1,100 from the general fund to the engineering fund to pay Floyd G. Browne, Marion O. engineer, for services rendered on the disposal plant project.

Pay Out of Bonds
It is intended to pay for the services out of the $75,000 issue of disposal plant bonds, but so far funds are not available.

A resolution authorizing the city treasurer to obtain an advance of $2,500 from the county auditor on the September tax settlement, had been prepared, but was not read. It will be considered Thursday night.

After adjourning the special meeting, councilmen held a committee meeting with Mr. Browne and Carl C. Leist, solicitor, to discuss further steps in the disposal plant program, including land for the plant and employment of Mr. Browne. Mr. Browne told councilmen his fee would be established on the next cost of construction of the plant. He said the fee would be six and one-half percent on projects ranging from $100,000 to $250,000.

Messrs. Brown and Leist will meet with officials of the Conlainer corporation next Monday at 2 p. m. to discuss arrangements for land for the plant. The plant site selected is at the rear of the company's plant.

G. H. Armstrong Speaks at Chapel
The first Chapel program of the year was held Wednesday from 12:30 to 1:15. After songs, scripture, and prayer, Supt. H. A. Strous introduced G. H. Armstrong, member of the Board of Education. Mr. Armstrong explained the work of the Board. He said they served because of their interest in the boys and girls and not for the salary they receive. He advanced the thought that the Board serves as a referee between the school, the boys and girls and the taxpayers who supply the money for the school. "Make use of your time to lay a good foundation for your life while you are in school," was his closing thought.

STATE HUSKING CONTEST TO BE STAGED OCT. 27

Walton Farm, Near Upper Sandusky, Scene of Annual Event

HORSE SHOW ARRANGED

Farm Machinery Will Be Exhibited, Too

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30 — King Corn is going to have a field day at the Walton farm just outside the northern limits of Upper Sandusky on routes 53 and 67, Wednesday, October 27, according to Earl Jones, extension agronomist, Ohio State university.

Two husking contests will be conducted, beginning at 10 a. m. State champions in both shock and stalk husking will be chosen but only the two high men in the stalk husking event will go to the national contest to be held in Missouri. The national contest does not have a class for shock huskers this year.

Mr. Jones says it is a good thing that football games do not require as many officials as a husking match or there would be no room for spectators in a stadium. A referee and two gleaners are assigned to each man in a husking contest so there are no offside plays, holding, or clipping in the corn field.

Winners in the husking matches will be posted on the bulletin board and announced at the session following dinner. There also will be a short program with one or two speakers at that time. Guy Miller and C. W. Hammans, rural economics department, Ohio State university, will give some pointers on the present outlook for corn and its use as a farm feed.

L. P. McCann, specialist in animal husbandry, will judge a horse show which will be held along with the husking contest. Some of the best teams in Ohio will be pulling wagons for the stalk huskers so the horses will prove useful as well as ornamental during the day.

Exhibits to show the benefits of hybrid corn and the use of lime on Ohio farms will be on display during the day. Mr. Jones believes that many people think that lime is useful only in helping to get stands of clover or alfalfa but he says that tests have proved that corn yields are increased when limestone has been used in the rotation preceding the corn.

Visitors to the Walton farm also will have a chance to see the latest developments in farm machinery, with the emphasis on tools used in producing or harvesting the corn crop. Some of the tools will be taken into the field and operated so there can be no question about the way they work.

ATHENS, Sept. 30.—Opening for its 133rd year and planning for an early participation in the Northwest Territory Celebration, Ohio University today saw its enrollment pass the 3,000 mark, setting a new all-time registration record. Ohio University, founded in 1804, was the first college or university in the Northwest Territory. Its establishment was envisioned in the Ordinance of 1787, and its original support was provided for by terms of the Ohio Company's purchase, a contract bearing the signatures of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson.

Among those from Pickaway County who have enrolled at the university this semester are Joseph Bell, John Cooper, William Crist, Charles Mowery, Elsie Updyke, Donald White, Circleville; Kathleen Hinton, Kingston; Dorothy Shupe, Laurelville; Eloise Kuhn, Turlington; Maribel Ater, Williamsport; and Thelma Plum, Ashville.

DARBY-TWP SCHOOL NEWS

The Summer vacation drew to a close as Sept. 6 approached. It was on this day that the doors of the Darby township school were opened again for the school term.

This year the first grade has an enrollment of 22. Among these are nine girls and 13 boys. Of these 22 pupils, seven have spent at least one year in school. As a whole this group seems to be adjusting itself to the ways of school more quickly than usual.

Grade two has an enrollment of 32. The general procedure in the second grade at the present time includes a review of first grade work. Preparation is being made for our exhibit at the Pumpkin Show.

Grade Three received a new flag last week. A study of the flag and the story of Betsey Ross followed. Work has also begun in the Geography Workbooks.

There are twenty three pupils in the fourth grade, fourteen girls and nine boys. Three of the girls, Margaret Hicks, Annabell Tayner, and Norma Adkins come from Era. The pupils are finding a great interest in their Hygiene and History Books, both subjects being new to the fourth grade. They hope to make this year a great success.

Grade five has an enrollment of 24, fourteen girls and 10 boys, the majority of the class has all of the material needed and our work is starting out. A very pretty poster was made commemorating the 150th anniversary of our Constitution.

The enrollment of Grade Six is 21. The tentative schedule for the grade has proven very successful so far this term with 30 minute class discussion periods in the seven major subjects and five supervised periods daily.

Eighty pupils are enrolled in the High School this year.

Due to the added number of pupils an addition was needed for the playground. The School Board rented the land adjacent of the school ground for this purpose. It was rented of the Ridgeway Bros., Harry and Ray.

The Senior class received their class rings on Thursday after school started. The Juniors have ordered theirs and are the first class to purchase their rings in the Junior year.

Football fans of Darby high purchased 55 tickets for the Texas-Ohio game. Maxwell Graham took a bus load of 31 to the game.

The new county doctor, D. A. Blackburn and the nurse, Miss Hunsicker visited our school last week and examined all the pupils.

CUMMINS, STOCK HAULER, IS FINED $100 AND COSTS

Failure to pay a fine of $100 and costs, imposed by Squire Harold Eveland, on a charge of hauling cattle without a P. U. C. O. license, resulted in W. R. Cummins, of Ashville, being committed to the county jail Wednesday.

The charge was filed by Harry Welch, state inspector.

GOOSE HAS 4 WINGS

POTEAU, Okla. (UP)—A live four-wing goose owned by Dell Robinson, farmer living a mile west of Poteau, is attracting considerable attention here. The goose is 3 months old and normal in other respects. The second pair of wings started developing when the goose began feathering, and are nearly as large as the original wings to which they are attached.

G-MAN'S SLAYER SPARED AS JURY VOTES LIFE TERM

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 30—(UP)—Guy Osborne, young Oklahoma desperado who killed a department of justice agent, escaped with his life last night when the jury at his murder trial recommended against capital punishment.

The government had demanded his life for the murder of Truett Rowe, 33-year-old F.B.I. agent. The verdict made a life sentence mandatory.

The 24-year-old prisoner was grinning when he was led to court to hear the verdict and he never lost his complacency.

The jury was out five hours. Rowe trailed Osborne to a ranch house near Gallup, N. M., last June 1, and tried to arrest him for automobile theft in Oklahoma. He was shot as he entered the house, which was owned by Wesley Osborne, the killer's brother.

Judge Colin Neblett said he would pass sentence Monday and request that if defense attorneys wished to file an appeal they do so before then.

MARINES' SAGA STILL GROWING DESPITE YEARS

Brigade on Guard Duty at Shanghai Writes Latest Chapter

IN ACTION 162 YEARS

Performance of Duty Term Given Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (UP)

—One hundred sixty-two years of trooping "from the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli" and again the corps is singing:

"If the army and the navy ever gaze on heaven's scenes, They'll find the streets are guarded by United States Marines."

Thus the history of the Marine Corps is summed up and the dramatic story continues with new chapters being written while a brigade of "devil dogs" stands guard over American lives and property in war-shattered Shanghai.

"Routine performance of duty," is the official terminology of the sea soldiers' activities, ranging from pirate fighting in the Caribbean and "bush war" against savage South Sea Islanders to front line service in the World War.

Serve All Over World

Their "routine" has carried them into the following countries, some of them on several occasions: Dominican Republic, Mar-quesas Islands, Tripoli, Falkland Islands, Puerto Rico, Sumatra, Argentina, Peru, Fiji Islands, Japan, Drummonds Island, Somoa, Africa, Johanna Island, Nicaragua, Luchu Islands, Siam, China, Colombia, Uruguay, Formosa, Chile, Hawaiian Islands, Mexico, Korea, France, Egypt, Haiti, Honduras, Navassa Island, Trinidad, Syria, Ethiopia, Panama, Russia, Cuba and Siberia.

Created in a troublous time just prior to the revolt of the Thirteen Colonies against England, the corps has typified the traditional "spirit of '76" ever since.

The Continental Congress, by act of Nov. 10, 1775, passed a resolution organizing a Marine Corps of two battalions. The Congress hardly realized at that time that it was creating what would become one of the most important instrumentalities in the hands of the government, in war and peace.

In Washington's Army

Less than a year after their organization and almost before the completion of their training course, limited as it was, the Marines saw action in the Colonial Revolutionary War and played a conspicuous part in some of the outstanding sea duels fought by John Paul Jones. One battalion served in George Washington's army and distinguished itself in action.

The years that followed the Revolution were comparatively peaceful ones for the corps, but in the War of 1812 the young "devil dog" organization again sprang into prominence. The Treaty of Paris, ending this conflict, was signed in 1814, but the "fighting Marines" were just beginning. Boarding naval vessels, they sailed for the Mediterranean where a year later they crushed the "Barbary Corsairs."

Fought Mutinous British

Simultaneously, a small detachment of Marines, serving with Commodore David Porter in the Pacific, guarded Porter's naval base in the Marquesas Islands for a number of months and had many experiences fighting natives and mutinous British prisoners of war who were left with them by Porter.

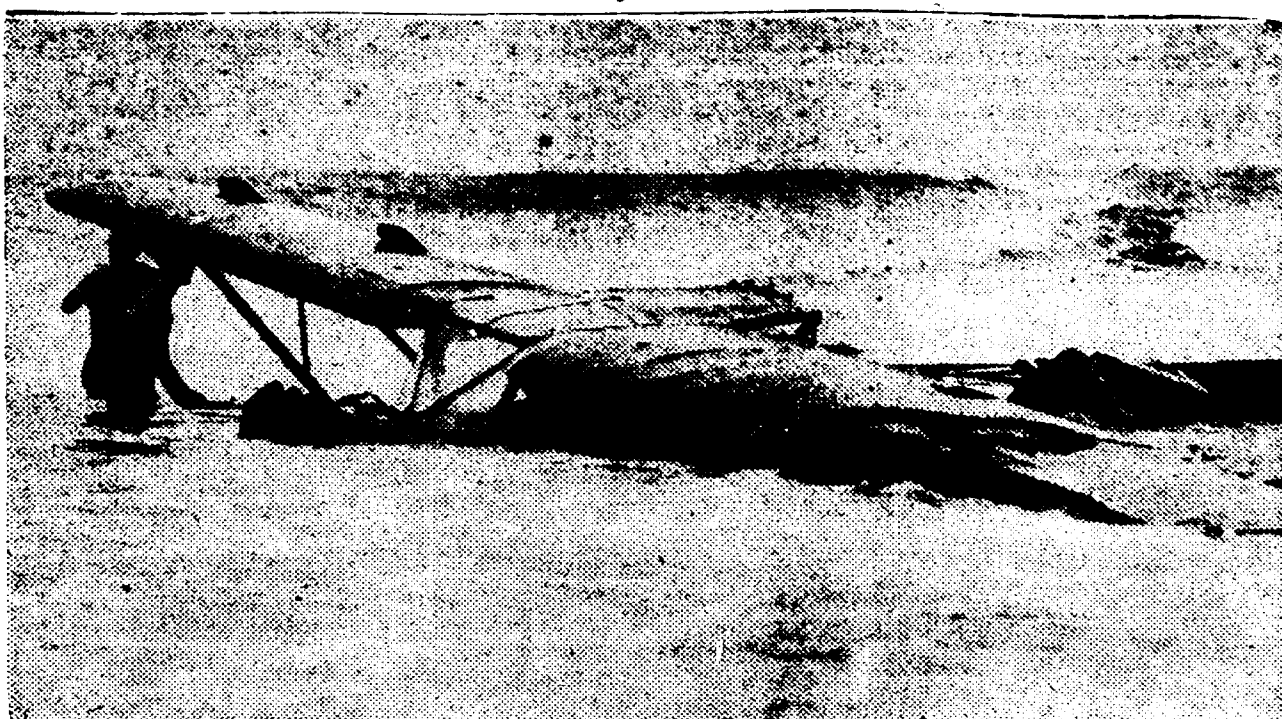

In the years leading up to the Mexican War, 1844-48, the Marines served with the army in the Seminole Indian wars, with the navy in operations against pirates in the West Indies and with a naval squadron on the West African coast which was assisting to suppress the slave trade.

In the Mexican War, the Marines were prominent in the conquest of California, assisting in the capture of Monterey, San Francisco, San Diego, San Pedro and Los Angeles.

Poached Latin America

After the Spanish-American War the Marines were known as

Man and Woman Injured in Freak Crash

CURIOUS bathers are shown examining the wreckage of the plane in which Henry Smith, of Mantoloking, N. J., took his week-end guests for pleasure trips. Flying low over the sea, Smith waved to a friend. A gust of wind whipped the nose of the plane down, and it dived into the ocean. Smith and a woman guest were severely injured.

Duvall's Pumpkins Go To Many Restaurants

By S. D. FRIDLEY

Columbus, Cleveland and Cincinnati restaurants have dismissed all thoughts and worry where their pumpkin pie material is to come from. They do not use the canned variety, but want the goods fresh from the fields and they have discovered that Pickaway county is the place to get best flavored pumpkins, and that our William Duvall, out here in Ashville territory, is the very best to be had.

He hauls them loads and loads each year and has been doing this same job for a long while. Sometime, when heavy rains come at the "strong arm" of the State Department, engaging in numerous "police duties" in Latin America, the most noteworthy of which was the expeditions into Nicaragua to fight the bandit leader Sandino.

With the advent of the Roosevelt administration, the Marines were withdrawn from Latin American territory, but their period of quietude was short, as the Shanghai war was in the offing and many of them returned to grounds where their uniform was well known as result of their activities in the Boxer uprising.

The corps consists of about 1,100 officers and 17,000 enlisted men.

That was a fine idea when the United Brethren church people at Robtown concluded that maybe their good pastor who served them so faithfully, might be in need of some of the material things that go along with life, so this thought was parent to the act and they came in full force and with loads of the things that a preacher and his family can use when thoughts of meal time come. But one thing these good people forgot, and that was to notify Rev. Smith or any member of his family about their coming. They just walked in and took charge of things. We're telling you it was a real surprise.

The Women's Aid of the church got the idea that a preacher in dealing with the many problems he frequently meets, might need "more light" so they brought along a beautiful floor lamp for pastor and family. We know that the Reverend and his family appreciates all their kindness and good will and we know heartily thank them and shall we say "come again."

HIGH TRIBUNAL READY TO BEGIN NOTABLE TERM

Court Will Sit Monday
While Political Storm
Still Whirls

BLACK CHARGES FIRED

Tennessee Valley Power
Projects Fought

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(UP)

The Supreme Court, focus of as fierce a political storm as has swept the nation in recent times, assembles Monday in its white marble edifice to open a new term. Members of the court, scattered across the continent and in Europe for a Summer holiday, have returned to inaugurate a new judicial year.

Few outward signs were noted of the political conflict raging about court since President Roosevelt submitted his judicial enlargement plan last Feb. 5. Nor was the furor of the charges concerning the new justice, Hugo L. Black, and his alleged connection with the Ku Klux Klan expected the permeate visibly the solemnity of the court's chamber.

Missing from the bench will be one familiar figure—Justice William Van Devanter who retired to the quiet of his Elliptical City, Md., farm after the court's final session last June. He took his place on the bench Jan. 3, 1910.

Meet Promptly at Noon

"Oyez! Oyez! The Chief Justice and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court!" deep-voiced Thomas Enalls Wagman, official court crier, will intone at the stroke of 12 Monday. The black-robed justices will enter the dais through parted plush drapes, and the new term will be under way.

The docket of business facing the court during the next year already is crowded with hundreds of cases, many of vital importance. As in each term since the Roosevelt administration came into power, the court will be called upon to pass judgment upon the validity of statutes enacted by the New Deal. Whether Congress was within its rights in passing legislation to control securities and commodities exchanges, how far the Tennessee Valley Authority may go in its program to lower electricity rates, and whether a Federal circuit court acted within its authority in enjoining a sit-down strike are only a few of the questions upon which the court already has been asked to rule.

In addition, an unheralded but vitally important case will test whether the tribunal will consider reversing any of the 5-to-4 decisions by which it invalidated New Deal social and economic reform measures.

Decision Reversal Asked

The issue came before the court in the petition of the Merced (Cal.) irrigation district asking that the court review its 1936 decision by which it held unconstitutional the municipal bankruptcy act. The district's plea is based wholly on the theory that the court, in view of last spring's apparent switch in line-up to a so-called "liberal" majority now, would hold in favor of that measure.

Observers generally agreed that the court probably will refuse to undertake the desired review of its earlier decisions. Should it grant the petition's report, however, the way would be opened for a flood of similar requests that it re-examine earlier decisions.

The tribunal will be called upon to decide whether the department of justice may continue its anti-trust action seeking dissolution of the Aluminum Company of America.

In cases involving the Bethlehem and Newport News Shipbuilding companies, the court will be called upon to decide whether the National Labor Relations act is applicable to the shipbuilding industry, which the two companies charge is purely intra-state.

Properly of the injunction against "sit-down" comes before the tribunal in a case involving the Apex Hosiery Company of Philadelphia, which obtained a Federal circuit court injunction prohibiting striking workers from

RANCHERS FIGHT CANADIAN PACKS OF WILD CANINES

ROUGE VALLEY, B. C. (UP)

Banded together like their brothers, the wolves, wild dogs are carrying destruction through the ranch country, killing livestock over a wide area.

Ranchers report killing of turkeys, cattle, sheep and pigs by the canine raiders. They keep their fire-arms handy to shoot on sight. The packs are made up of dogs which have run away from farms of the district, or been disowned. Starving, they have banded together. At first they raided by night, but have now become so bold that George H. Wilson, manager of the Twyn Waters Ranch, reports a daylight raid on a herd of ponies.

Led by a huge mongrel dog, the pack of seven rounded up the pony herd and drove the horses to the doors of the farm buildings. Separating, they blocked the ponies from seeking refuge, then prepared for the death spring when Wilson charged them with a pitchfork. One rancher reports loss of $7,000 worth of stock through the depredations of the wild dogs of Rouge Valley.

remaining on the company's property. The union which called the strike has challenged validity of the order.

Gold Suit Up Again

The court already has agreed to rule on the suit of Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati attorney and son of the late President and chief justice, challenging the treasury's right to refuse to pay in gold of pre-devaluation interest on liberty bonds called by the treasury in 1935 but which Taft refused to surrender.

The court will be on familiar ground when it considers a petition seeking a new review of one of the "Scottsboro cases." Twice the court has already saved the life of Haywood Patterson, young Negro found guilty of attacking a white girl, by reversing death sentences imposed by Alabama courts and ordering new trials.

Questions of civil liberties will be involved in at least two other cases. One challenges the right of state motion picture censors to ban showings of alleged indecent motion pictures, and the other again raises the question of whether evidence obtained by "wire-tapping" is properly admissible in criminal trials.

Validity of the Commodities Exchange act of 1936 is challenged in sweeping attacks by the Kansas City Board of Trade and several members of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Attacks on validity of the Securities and Exchange act are contained in three suits brought by two Florida oil royalty investment firms.

BRITISH ISLES HAVE BUSIEST RAIL SYSTEMS

LONDON (UP)—British railway tracks are used to a greater extent than those of any country in the world.

According to the latest available figures there are nearly twice as many passengers and goods per mile of route track in this country as there are in France, and more than five times as many as run on the railways of the United States.

Railways are the world's most tireless industry, and the steel tracks of British railways are seldom idle. Day and night they operate with a steadiness which no other industry in the world can equal.

The British railways work to the minute, and intense suburban services are run to the second. Electric trains pass along London suburban lines at the rate of nearly two a minute, and on the main line express trains move with the smooth precision of giant battleships in line ahead, with twice the speed of the fastest destroyer, protected by modern signals controlled from 10,300 manned signal boxes.

In London alone more than 7,000 passenger trains arrive and leave seven main line terminals every day, an average of five trains a minute throughout the 24 hours. Waterloo handles 1,500 passenger trains a day; both London Bridge and Clapham Junction deal with 2,500 trains each, while Liverpool Street, with its 1,200 trains, claims to possess the most intensive steam operated suburban service in the world.

Across the border in Scotland, Glasgow's three principal stations deal with more than 2,500 passenger trains every weekday. At Manchester 800 trains are dealt with, at Liverpool 540, at Bristol 500 and at York 350.

IN time of prosperity prepare for adversity" is a good old American adage preached more than it is practised. We have usually been so optimistic that, in time of experience, we expected prosperity to last forever. Even after the bitter experience of the last few years, most of us seem to be spending all we make, or more.
But not the Latter Day Saints of Utah.
Not only are they taking care of their own indigent members, without calling for public relief, but they are actually preparing today for "the next depression." They have adopted a long-range security program. They are building storehouses in strategic places to lay up grain and canned foods, employing needy Mormons in such work. On Sept. 19 they observed a special fast day and turned over to the church, for the future depression fund, the money they could have spent for meals.

It is something for Americans in public life and private life to think about. The lesson is as old as the Egypt of Joseph and Pharaoh.

LONGEST PARADE

THIS is the big parade season in Europe.
There are military drills on a grand scale in Germany as Hitler watches the annual army maneuvers. There are formal military reviews in the other strongholds
of militarism.

But nothing we've heard of anywhere else equals the parade of the American Legion up Fifth Avenue in New York City.
It began a little before eight o'clock on the evening of Sept. 21 and was still going more than sixteen hours later, early in the morning of Sept. 22. More than 2,000,000 people were on the sidelines watching the colorful procession and thrilling to the rhythmic music of the bands.

The remarkable thing about this parade is that it was a military demonstration at all and it wasn't compulsory. The Legionnaires chose to do it as part of their annual reunion, as college alumni parade at class reunions. The people in the reviewing stands were not a dictator and his aides but legion officials and public officials from all parts of the country. The throng of delighted though weary spectators on the sidelines were there to see a grand show.
Their presence had not been required by a commander or duce demanding a patriotic demonstration. Nobody had to go who didn't want to do so.

Altogether it seems to have been a typically American performance, with no sinister implications or threats to anyone's peace.

As between Japan and China
the fact (not the theory) is that the fact is to say, we have a neu-

It is a clumsy law. Nevertheless, purpose is to keep us out of other countries' wars. And we certainly are about 100 percent in favor of doing just that.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

BLACK MAY GET A SEVERE HAZING
WASHINGTON—With the return of Supreme Court Justices to Washington it has been whispered among Court attachés that the "Eight Old Men" will put the "New Young Man"—Hugo Black—
through a severe hazing.

This would be the easiest thing in the world to do, and rests entirely in the hands of the Chief Justice. Any new Justice, by being assigned extremely difficult, long and arduous cases, can be left hanging on the ropes gasping for breath.

Among the hardest cases are those involving State boundaries, and Justice Van Devanter, whom Black replaces, for some reason always liked them. Chief Justice Hughes might continue the precedent by passing them on to Hugo.

Hardest job of every Justice is passing upon writs of certiorari and showing why the cases should or should not be reviewed by the Supreme Court. About 900 writs come before the Court annually, compared with only 200 cases actually heard, and the job of wading through these 900 writs
is not easy, even for an experienced Justice.

But for a new man, who does not know
as a matter of routine the exact citation needed, the job can be baffling.

NEPHEW SECRETARY

Already there are 450 cases on file before the Court and other Justices have spent most of the Summer studying the writs of certiorari. Justice Brandeis read every one of them himself, even including the briefs, some of which are thousands of words long. Justice Stone hurried back from a trip to Mexico to tackle what he calls the "certs".

Some Justices rely upon their secretaries to do the spadework in these cases. And since Black has not practised law for many years, and never was known as an outstanding jurist, he probably could use a crack legal secretary.

BLACK'S ASSISTANT

While Justice Black has been dodging reporters in Paris and London, his newly appointed Negro assistant has had an equally hard time in Washington.

He is Leon Smallwood, a middle-aged and intelligent-looking colored man who has been assigned to be Black's messenger.
Because he is a Catholic and because Black allegedly belongs to the Ku Klux Klan, Smallwood has been the center of considerable curiosity.

He has been good-natured about it and obviously pleased at his new appointment,
but Frank Green, Marshal of the Court,
has not.

Worried over reports that he appointed Smallwood as a joke on Justice Black,
Mr. Green has kept the Negro almost under lock and key for the past two weeks.
Smallwood has been given work in the Marshal's office, and instructed to talk to no one even when he goes home.

Although newspapers have besieged him with attempted interviews, the result has been even fewer published quotes from Smallwood than from his future boss, barricaded behind hotel and stateroom doors:

How Protective Action of Nose Lining Works
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
ALL THE ORGANS of the body are equipped to protect us against the perils of the external world. The protective devices of the organs which come in direct contact with the external world are admirable. The outer layers of the skin contain the typical resistant protein, keratin. The mucous membrane which lines the entire inner surface of the body—covering the nose, the throat, mouth, bronchial tubes and digestive system—has also its protective mechanisms.

Dr. Clendingen

The nose, throat and bronchial tubes, to a less extent the lung surfaces, are constantly bombarded like the first line troops of a defending army by all kinds of particles in the air—from the size of bacteria to the size of dust grains. The mucous membrane of the bronchial tubes is of the kind known as ciliated: the cells have fine hairlike processes called cilia, which constantly sway in the direction of the throat. They sweep all these foreign particles along toward the outer world again.

The principal protection of the mucous membrane of the nose is the mucus it secretes. This covers the nose and throat like a thin, unbroken membrane, extending not only throughout the wall of the interior of the nose, but throughout the sinuses. Foreign bodies with points or sharp edges are covered by the mucus that accumulates as the particle moves along. This is also true of the action of the mucus and saliva of the mouth, protecting the walls of the digestive tube further. The cowing of mucus probably has much to do with inhibiting the action of bacteria in the nose under ordinary circumstances.

Further Protection
There is, however, a further protective action of this mucus in that it is constantly moving backwards, draining all the debris that enters the nose into the pharynx. Here it meets the stream coming up from the lungs, swept along by the cilia of the bronchial mucous membrane, and they are all swallowed, and then the acid juice of the stomach plays its role in destroying most of the bacteria.
This movement of the nasal mucus has been ingeniously studied by Hilding, by placing drops of India ink on the mucous membrane of the nose, and timing their rate of motion.
The movement of the film of mucus inside the nose is continuously moving at a rate which varies in different parts of the nose. The movement results partly from the force of gravity, partly from the pull of swallowing (which you do unconsciously about every three minutes) and from cilia in some of the cells of the mucous membrane.
Slow in the front part of the nose, the movement is rapid in the back (4 to 6 mm. per minute) so that the drops of ink traverse the inner area of the nose in about four to ten minutes.
When this mechanism is overwhelmed—by a horde of virulent bacteria, or dust or silicon particles too numerous to deal with—various diseases, infections, cold, sinus disease and silicon lung occur.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendingen can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendingen, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining Weight," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Hair and Skin".

DEAD RECKONING

By BRUCE HAMILTON
COPYRIGHT BY BRUCE HAMILTON; RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
Tim Kennedy graduated into worldwide fame from the school of armchair murderers. With a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in small town near London, Tim at middle age, feels happy and secure.
Then Esther is run down by a truck,
returning home weeks later a physical wreck, with all her former beauty shattered. Tim loses all interest in his wife and is greatly attracted by Alma Shepherd, a widow and a new client.
He maneuvers to invite her to their annual tennis party. Tim assures Esther that he still loves her. He begins to see more and more of Alma who Esther now considers a friend of the family.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 15
BUT TIM'S love for Alma waxed, growing to dimensions he would never have believed possible.
Certainly his brief courtship of Esther, when success had perhaps come too easily, had brought him nothing like it. All his senses were quickened, he began to see and feel things with the eyes and nerves of a poet. The summer-clad trees and woods of West Shilston, which he had been wont to regard with a passively pleasurable contemplation, became suddenly vivid and moving to him, were invested with moods and an active life corresponding to his own newly enriched inner life, and forming a background for it. In this golden, glowing state of heightened perception he lived more fully than ever before; it was an Indian summer of romantic youth, more fragrant for its late coming.

Only once did he approach a revelation of his emotions to the object of them. Hearing from an independent source that she was going to Westbourne on Saturday afternoon, he drove to the town himself, and by loitering near the car park she was almost certain to see, he contrived an apparently accidental meeting.
It transpired that neither of them had anything particular to do, and his suggestion that they should walk out of town up the high cliff path to Shingle Head was accepted without demur. A great wind blew from the sea,
was too loud in their ears, the struggle up the cliff too exacting for them to speak; but both were aware of an identity of tingling, wind-buffed sensation, an enveloping isolating communion of physical experience not to be rendered in speech. They flung themselves down on the short,
wiry grass at the top with the laughing abandon of children.

"Oh, Alma!" exclaimed Tim with half-smiling gravity, as they recovered their breath. "Why didn't I meet you 20 years ago?"

Her face, as she sat with knees
drawn up, looking out to the distant sea horizon, was averted from him. She did not speak at once, and he thought for a moment she was not going to answer him. But presently she said:

"Twenty years ago. . . I was a little girl of 12 then, at school. I was too good at tennis and hockey; it made me conceited and bossy. . . I don't think you'd have liked me much at 12, Tim."

"Fifteen years ago, then."

"I think I was beginning to be nicer then."

"And I was married." He shrugged his shoulders. Her frank eyes met his.

"I was married too. . ."
"And not so happily."
She was silent for a moment.
"Did you ever read 'Antic Hay'?" she asked suddenly.

"Years ago."
"That youth in it, Gum-bea. . . She plunged into an intimate account of her married life. She instanced the "mild and melancholy one" in Aldous Hux-ley's novel, learning the reality of love from a simple-hearted creature by whose side he slept for an entranced night without stirring.
To Cecil Shepherd that sort of love had been the only reality.

"She's ripe for me," thought Tim exultantly. "I don't believe she's ever had an affair, for all her sophistication. But the chance won't last forever. It will soon be too late. . ."

He had awakened suddenly in the darkness the next morning, with the echo of his own voice ringing in his ears. It was 8 o'clock, the hour before dawn, and in the deadly, hushed stillness of that summer night, his irrevocable resolution was made. He was quite calm, a little sorry for Esther, but quite inflexible. His purpose seemed to him neither very dreadful nor very new; it was as if he had been waiting for a sign, and was now merely ratifying a decision reached months
before.

Before the summer was out
Esther must die.
So drastic and perilous a plan had indeed not come quite out of the blue to the devoted mind of this intensely respectable professional man. He had toyed idly with the idea of murder for many years, though he had never before had the occasion to give his speculations a concrete relation to his own life. But as a solution of personal problems in the abstract it had always appealed strongly to him by reason of its directness and finality.

Life to him was a stream of sentience, flowing brightly in the sunlight, before returning to an everlasting tunnel of black nothingness. It followed that every mortal soul must be prepared when need arose to do battle to the death for its individual happiness; for the opportunity would not come again. . . Tim Kennedy's life had hitherto been a happy one. He had not indeed been born to affluence and leisure.
He had had his difficulties, but he had been aware of his power to combat them by patient industry
and skill, without hazard.

The current of his existence had long flowed, with no violent effort, into a peaceful channel. And suddenly the stream had been roughly diverted; no amount of patient waiting would get it back into the channel again; either it must waste and spend itself in stony places, or he must drive it back by force, by sweeping away the obstacle. No other alternative presented itself to him.

His lack of scruple was not due to any positive cruelty, of which he was entirely free. Presumably it derived from a fundamental callousness, but of a kind that transcended the ordinary. He was an egotist in the most absolute sense; he had no real belief in the existence of any sensations, emotions, or thoughts, which he did not feel in his own organs, his own nerves, his own mind. He regarded the world as a medium for the exercise of his personality and the fulfillment of his desires. He would have hesitated to put it even to himself that he was the only entity with a positive conscious existence on the planet, but such was his private faith.

It followed that the only deterrent likely to affect him was fear
of discovery and its consequences.
And here his vanity came to reassure him. He had read many of the volumes giving verbatim reports of famous murder trials, and had reached some decided conclusions about these cases.

The chief thing to strike him was the enormous amount of bunbling by these poor murderers;
blunders committed either through stupid complacency, or lack of attention to detail, or insufficient planning, or the recklessness of passion. They would buy their poison at the chemists nearest to their place of residence. Or they would spoil by stupid repetition
an originally bold and ingenious method, bound to incriminate them once the connecting link was discovered. Or they would stab or shoot recklessly, with no thought of a line of retreat.

Bolder, but ultimately as fatal,
were the attempts made to conceal the existence of a crime by hiding or destroying the body.
The mechanical difficulties were formidable, and even if they were overcome, others remained. Several had not escaped because of the failure of the police to identify the body of their victims; even the failure to produce a body at all had not in a recent case impeded a conviction.

Why had all these attempts
been foredoomed to discovery?
Tim Kennedy believed he knew the answer—lack of simplicity.
There was some excuse for this when the intended victim was domestic under a roof other than the destroyer's natural opportunity was lacking; it had to be artificially created, and the attendant risks enormously increased.

But this plea could not be urged
in the case of a wife, a husband,
a parent, an employer, a servant,
or anyone living in the same house. In such a case the actual contrivance of a death, granted the necessary resolution and inflexibility of purpose, was the easiest thing in the world. There was no artificial conjunction to be planned; you had your victim on the spot. The fear of spying eyes was reduced to a minimum; it could be care and opportunism be practically eliminated.

Only, of course, this enormously strong position carried its own disadvantage. Granted that the act itself presented the least possible difficulty, the very existence of the opportunity brought you at once in the range of suspicion. It therefore became necessary to provide a cause of death, and more important still, to suggest a means of implementing the cause which did not admit of disproof.

LOVE NEW AND OLD

And were they not the happy days
When Love and I were young,
When earth was robed in heavenly
light,
And all creation sung?
When gazing in my true love's
face,
Through greenwood alleys lone,
I guessed the secrets of her heart,
By whispers of mine own.

And are they not the happy days
When Love and I are old,
And silver evening has replaced
A morn and noon of gold?
Love stood alone mid youthful
joy,
But now by sorrow tried,
It sits and calmly looks to heaven
With angels at its side.

SCHMIDT TO USE TWO SOPHOMORES AGAINST PURDUE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Ohio State had 11 seasoned veterans in its starting lineup against Texas Christian last week, but two of these lettermen may be replaced by sophomores when the Bucks line up against Purdue here Saturday.

One of the major disappointments of the opening contest was the performance of Howard Wedebrook, the giant Portsmouth boy, at right halfback.

Wedebrook was counted on to pull the Bucks out of numerous tight spots and gain many yards for them on the exchange of kicks. However, his punting was distinctly second rate against T. C. U. and unless the big junior is getting off long, towering kicks with marked regularity there is little to justify his presence in a game. He is too slow to meet Big Ten requirements as a running back and his blocking is mediocre.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt has been giving an increased amount of attention to Frank Zadowney, Cleveland sophomore, this week and may start the youngster against the Boilermakers.

The other probable change in the Bucks lineup is at left end when sophomore Sam Bartschy has shown to a great advantage in practice drills and may get the nod over the experienced Fred Crow.

The guests included Mrs. Jesse Gaines, Miss Wilma Gaines, of Saltorek township; Mrs. Stanley Peters, Mrs. Cloyd Young, Mrs. William Hudson, Mrs. Sowers, Mrs. Phillip Radcliff, Mrs. Leonard Morgan, Mrs. Adolphus Pearce, Mrs. William Cady, Miss Marie Wilkins, Mrs. Grover Wilkins, Mrs. Mae Madden, Mrs. David Frazier and Mrs. Charles Schlegler.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

PROTECT YOUR STOPPERS

IF A NO TRUMP declarer sees that he probably will lose the lead several times to the dangerous hand, he should consider the hold-up play for a very definite purpose. That purpose is to prevent the other opponent from knocking out any of his own stoppers in the suit he fears. By so doing, he can compel the dangerous hand to use up its re-entries before it can cripple him.

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)
Here, after two passes, West opened with a shaded bid of 1-Spade. North called 2-Hearts, South 2-No Trumps, North 3-Clubs and South 3-No Trumps. Undaunted by the no trump bid, West led the fourth best of his spade suit, South winning the queen with the king. The club 10 was covered by the queen and ace and then a heart led back from the board to the 10 and ace. West returned the spade 3 to the jack and ace. Right there was where South made his fatal mistake. He should have ducked and let East hold the trick. As it was, he followed with three heart tricks and two high diamonds, then had to lose a club to west, who followed with three spade tricks, beating the contract. Had South let East hold either of the two spade tricks on which he played the queen and the jack, the contract would have been made, as it would have compelled West to use up a re-entry to knock out South's last spade stopper.
